Introduction
Hello, welcome to the Nuthatches newsletter all about anti-bullying week. It started on the 12th November and we are going to tell you what we did. We hope you enjoy it.

Odd Socks
For a week we wore odd socks to school because it was anti-bullying week. We wore them to show we are all different but equal. It was a lot of fun!

Word Search
We each did a word search about anti-bullying. We re-capped some words such as intentional and repetitive to remind us of their importance. Some words were easier to find than others!

Poster
We each did a poster with the words bullying vs conflict in bold. Then we wrote bullet points for what the words mean and gave examples. We also added some pictures to do with bullying and conflict.

Odd Socks
For a week we wore odd socks to school because it was anti-bullying week. We wore them to show we are all different but equal. It was a lot of fun!

Hand of Trust
We drew around our hand and wrote a person we trust on each finger. Then we coloured it in and cut it out and if we are bullied we can get it out of our tray to remind us who we can talk to.

Mindfulness Colouring
We did mindful colouring with the title “We all fit together”. The pictures all had different children on them some in wheelchairs, some people of different religions or cultures to remind us that we are all equal and we should celebrate our differences.

Bunting
We made bunting and each created a different flag using different patterns and coloured it in on both sides. Then we signed it to show we agree with Pelham’s anti-bullying charter and it will be displayed with everyone else’s in the whole school.

Videos/Discussion
We watched a video about a man who was bullied as a child but he overcame it and became one of the world’s strongest men. We also watched a video where we had to decide if the puppet had been bullied or part of a conflict. Another video we watched was an inspirational story of a child with a disfigurement who reminded us that our differences are what make us special.

Assemblies
In one assembly we learnt about anti-bullying. Also we learnt that anti-bullying week starts on the 12th November. We also had an assembly on the first written account of bullying about Joseph and his 11 brothers.

Drama
For Computing we read as a class a scenario of cyber-bullying then we got into groups and had a sheet with our own scenario which we acted out and each group performed to the class.

Workshop
We went to a workshop all about anti-bullying based on the circus. We discussed how to respect each other. We played games all about respect such as an anagram of the word respect.

Written by the children in Nuthatches